

I was originally going to keep this as a draft, but digital currency is growing and changing so fast I thought I better share in real time.

The title says it all and basically what I've done is a few google searches looking for advertising using bitcoin to pay.

The reason I'm doing this is because out of a few mining sites I have the most confidence in HashFlare.io . I've purchased a few mining contracts and will probably use the returns to advertise. But the cool thing will be to automate this process and scale it up. That's the idea.

The following are just basic google searches and this is not an article, just sharing...
