

Powered by the freelance economy, workers are increasingly rejecting the notion of the social contract. They're choosing freedom, flexibility and control over who they work for and when. So where does this leave loyalty and what can employers do to make sure they attract and keep the best people?

Source:

<http://www.forbes.com/sites/peterjohnston/2017/03/02/could-the-freelance-economy-destroy-loyalty>